Introduction to Global Training Center Sub-centers

I . Overview of Global Training Center Sub-centers

The Global Training Center Sub-centers (hereinafter called the "Sub-centers" for short) are affiliated organizations established by the Global Training Center (hereinafter called the "Center" for short) to improve the global level of vocational skills and based on the skills of the WorldSkills Competition, such as the "Global Training Center Information Network Cabling Sub-center", "Global Training Center Optoelectronic Technology Sub-center", etc.

Each sub-center has a separate secondary sub-center in each country, such as the "Global Training Center Optoelectronic Technology (China) Sub-center". Each secondary sub-center needs to authorize schools and universities / other organizations to influence and call on more schools and universities as well as organizations to participate in the sub-center.

The Center signs strategic cooperation agreements at the national institution level, and the contractors recommend schools and universities / other organizations in the country where they are located to take the lead in organizing the business cooperation of the sub-centers.

II . Organizational Form of Global Training Centers and Sub-centers

III. Cooperation Rules of Sub-centers

1. The center authorizes the sub-centers as the "Global Training Center XXXX Sub-center" and provides consulting services, such as business guidance, international training activities, international exchange activities, international cooperation docking, project cooperation, and technical support.

2. The sub-center authorized by the Center as "Global Training Center XXX Sub-center" enjoys exclusive advantages and status, leading schools and universities / other organizations. The validity period of the licensing is one year. Before the expiration, the sub-center will be evaluated whether it can pass the certification and whether the licensing will continue.

IV. Responsibilities of Sub-centers

1. Undertake the output of course resources on the online training resources platform of the sub-center (www.intskill.com); review the course resources in the professional fields of the sub-center and other course resources which are uploaded to the Center's online training resources platform through the sub-center, and check the quality of the course resources.

2. Undertake the scientific research of the sub-center in its professional fields, formulate and improve professional standards, organize new project development, new technology application, new product research and development, teaching material development, certificate development and so on.

3. Construct professional training labs of a certain scale that meet the standards of the WorldSkills Competition. They play a role in the cultivation of highly skilled personnel and social training, enhancing regional influence and radiation.

4. Take the advantages of the leading schools and universities of the sub-center, contributing resources and wisdom to the majors and competition skills of the sub-center, setting a demonstrative benchmark among the institutions, and leading other schools and universities in the country (not less than 50) to join the sub-center.

5. Every year, hold at least 4 professional technical trainings globally, as well as more than 2 promotional activities, including but not limited to forums, salons, lectures, academic seminars, technical exchanges, technical consultations, etc.

6. Strengthen the in-depth cooperation between domestic and international schools and universities, and promote international cooperation such as exchange programs for students, mutual recognition of credits, and international certification.

7. Actively participate in various activities related to the professional fields of the sub-center hosted or organized by the Center.

8. Responsible for the operation, training, activities, publicity, promotion and other related expenses of the sub-center.

The Global Training Center develops branches around the world, and sincerely invites potential partners to join the sub-centers and work together for the great cause of highly skilled personnel training in the world!
